Kiely Hall, room 170

The meeting will come to order:

Chair Manuel Sanudo called the meeting to order at 3:43 p.m.

Chair Sanudo announced that we will start with Agenda item 3. Announcements, Administrative Reports, and Memorials and go back to item 1. Approval of Agenda.

3. Announcements, Administrative Reports, and Memorials:

1. Grace Magee, NYPRIG representative reminded everyone to register to vote for the New York State primary which is on Tuesday, April 19. She also announced there will be an “Earth Day Festival” which will be collecting old textiles on Monday, April 18 and Wednesday, April 20 in front of the Student Union from 11am-2 pm.

2. Mr. Ben Chitty member of the Executive Committee of the QC Chapter of the PSC CUNY. He announced that although the New York State budget was passed, it did not include any funding for retroactive labor settlements at CUNY. The union will continue lobbying in Albany to try and get a separate bill passed to fund a retroactive labor settlement. Negotiations with the union and the university on a new contract will continue during the spring break. In addition the union will also continue its campaign for a strike authorization vote which will be conducted by the American Arbitration Association starting May 2 thru May 11. All union members paying dues within the past 4 months will receive a ballot for voting and all votes will be kept confidential. Mr. Chitty answered questions from the senators.

3. Professor Edisa Weeks, Drama Theatre and Dance invited everyone to the “Students Choreography Showcase” which will open on May 11.

3a. Guest Speaker- Dr. John Andrejack, Dean of Students, Executive Director of Student Development

Dr. Andrejack, started with a Power Point presentation introducing the staff members of Student Development and Student Life. He described how they each interact with our students on a daily basis either with clubs, working with veterans, fraternity and sororities or arranging trips as important as the “Martin Luther King” service learning trip and the “House Boy Ranch” which works with autistic children using equestrian therapy. In closing, Dr. Andrejack announced that over the past 7 years Queens College has had the highest voter turnout in any student election in CUNY. Our election this year still had a 25% voter turnout even though the party ran unopposed. Dr. Andrejack answered questions from the senators.

“To accept the Graduate Curriculum Committee Minutes dated March 16, 2016”

Hearing no objection to the motion, Professor Richard Bodnar moved unanimous consent.

Graduate Curriculum Committee
Minutes of 3/16/2016

1. Media Studies

a. New Course

MEDST 702. Capitalism and Media. 2 hr. plus supervised lab. And/or conf. hr. 3 cr.

Seminar offers an intensive introduction to global capitalism and its relation to established and contemporary media systems. This is primarily a theory course that will teach graduate students to understand, analyze and research the diverse forms of governance, cultural power, knowledge, public policy, and resistance associated with media as they shape, and are shaped by race, class, and gender politics.

Justification: The Masters in Media Studies program was relaunched in 2014 (after being dormant for 17 years) with an explicit and dedicated mission on contemporary media as a means to engage purposefully and effectively within contemporary struggles over social justice. Since re-starting the program, we have found that our students need an intensive introduction to theories of the media that focus on the power of global capitalism in relationship to contemporary forms of injustice, exploitation, and inequality. The program’s stated commitments to the study and practice of media linked to social and political activism requires a new core course designed to develop core competencies in theories of the media as agents of resistance against the power of contemporary capitalist structures. While a course like “Media Theory” provides a broad survey of scholarly theories of the media, the targeted emphasis of “Capitalism and Media” would provide a focused introduction to media systems as they engage with contemporary struggles over capitalism and social justice. One of two required courses in the MA curriculum, “Capitalism and Media” would partner with “Media and Social Justice” to provide a necessary level of theoretical grounding and specialization for our students.

b. Change in requirements for matriculation

To Read:

Requirements for Matriculation

These requirements are in addition to the general requirements for admission.

1. A 3.0 grade-point average on a 4.0 scale in undergraduate degree work.

2. At least three letters of recommendation from past professors, work supervisors or other people familiar with your personal potential and work ethic. In some instances an interview with the Master’s Program Coordinator may be required.

3. Your TOEFL score, if you did not earn your undergraduate degree in residence at a university in an English-speaking country. Students whose TOEFL score is lacking (below 550) may have to take ESL courses before being formally admitted.

4. An 800-1000-word argument for what you want to accomplish with media or your media scholarship. What is the problem you want to research or address? How do you want to make a difference? What is your focus for social change? You are applying to a program where the faculty will be actively supporting your efforts, so convince us to join your cause, or make us understand your motivations, influences, and values.

If possible, append the essay with examples or links to any of your writing, videos, artwork, websites, or other work you feel supports your case.

This should not be a simple biography or general statement of interest in this field, but a supported argument for your research, art, political or social agenda.

Consider answering such questions as:
How are you studying or practicing media, and why does it matter?
Has your work already made a difference? Tell us how.
What do you want for society or your own community, and how do media enable or undermine that goal?
If there are concrete projects or issues you hope to explore, how might a collaborative, interdisciplinary graduate program help you to pursue this work?

5. The GRE is not required, but can be submitted in support of your application.

6. The credentials of each applicant will be examined by the departmental Graduate Studies Committee, which will accept, accept with conditions, accept on probation, or reject the candidate.

Matriculation with Conditions

Under certain circumstances, students with an undergraduate average below B may be matriculated under the condition of “Probation.” A student admitted on probation must achieve a B (3.0) average in the first 12 credits of graduate work. Students admitted on probation who fail to attain fully matriculated status after completing 12 graduate credits will not be permitted to continue.
c. Change in Requirements

To Read:

Degree Requirements for the Masters Program

These requirements are in addition to the general College requirements for the Master of Arts degree.

1. When a candidate is admitted, the Graduate Program Coordinator will assist the candidate in developing a plan of study.

2. All candidates in Media Studies are required to complete two core courses with an overall grade-point average of B (3.0) or better. The courses are: MEDST 702, Capitalism and Media and MEDST 703, Media and Social Justice.

3. In order to graduate, students must complete 27 credits of coursework and one 3-credit Thesis seminar. Students must complete 30 credits to graduate, but may take up to 36 credits. Subject to approval by the Graduate Media Studies Committee, students prepare a thesis based upon independent research and must pass a final oral presentation on its content and method in the presence of their graduate committee.

4. Additional information on policies and standards can be found at the College website for Graduate Studies and Research.

d. Change in policy

To Read:

Fellowships and Tuition Assistance

The Wilbur Gilman Fellowship Fund was established to foster advanced study and criticism of media - The Media Studies department offers to qualified students the opportunity to apply for the Gilman Fellowship. Number and level of awards will be determined through consideration of the following criteria:

1. Undergraduate grade-point average.

2. Two letters of recommendation.

3. A 500-word statement explaining why you believe you are qualified for the fellowship. Your statement should address items such as the quality and scope of your academic background, your specific areas of interest, and your experiences both in and out of school.

A student selected to receive the award must be matriculated in the Media Studies Masters program and must register for a minimum of 6 graduate credits in the semester(s) the award is granted. The statement and letters of recommendation must be submitted to the Graduate Program Coordinator, Department of Media Studies, Queens College – CUNY, Flushing, NY 11367 no later than the closing date for graduate applications each year.
In extraordinary circumstances, a student may be selected to receive the award at the Graduate Committee's discretion.

Additional information on assistance programs and fellowships is available through Queens College Office of Graduate Studies at (718) 997 – 5190.

e. Change in title.

To Read:

MEDST 703. Media and Social Justice. 2 hr. plus supervised lab. and/or conf. hr.; 3 cr.
Seminar examines political, economic and sociological approaches to media as agents of historical change and social transformation within struggles over race, class, and gender. Topics include the digitization of society and how information technology and networks work within digital capitalism, and the significance of contemporary media within abiding struggles over injustice, exploitation, and social justice.
Justification: Media and Social Justice is a core course in the program, which provides students with an understanding of the interplay between media technologies and struggles over social justice. The change in course title reflects a broader definition of the topic; social change is a subset of social justice.

(See the Undergraduate Bulletin for descriptions of these courses.)

d. Change in Requirements.
Requirements for the Post-Baccalaureate Initial Certificate Physical Education

To Read:
Admission to the program begins with submission of an application for matriculation. In addition to the application, a student must submit a letter of intent, which includes the student’s background in sport and physical education, experiences working in sport, recreation, or physical education settings with children and young adults, any teaching experience, a philosophical statement on the role of physical education in society, and future plans upon completion of the program. The applications are reviewed by an Admissions Committee, which considers, among other factors, the letter of intent, the graduate application with particular attention to performance in undergraduate work and in writing courses, the Graduate Record Examination General Test (GRE), and three professional letters of reference. The applicant must hold a bachelor’s degree with a general education core in the liberal arts and sciences. Applicants who majored in physical education but do not hold an initial certificate, or applicants who come from disciplines other than physical education, will be required to satisfy deficiencies by taking courses which constitute as a minimum the following: FNES 011, 012 (3 courses), 013, 014 (2 courses), 030, 143, 253, 342, and/or their equivalents.
