THE QUEENS COLLEGE WOMEN & GENDER STUDIES PROGRAM

presents

CARMEN COSME

DECOLONIZING FEMINISM:

Afro-Latinas Writers (Re) Creating the Afro-Feminine Identity through Literature

Monday, April 11 • 12:15–2 pm
Rosenthal Library • Fifth Floor
President’s Conference Room #2
Complimentary lunch

Carmen Cosme teaches in the History and English Department at Springfield Community College, in Springfield, Massachusetts. She is currently co-editing Challenging Enslavement: Black Women’s Strategies of Resistance in Nueva Granada (Colombia), Venezuela, Brazil, and Cuba 1550–1900. In addition, she has contributed to a book entitled Decolonial Approaches to Latin American Literatures and Cultures, forthcoming in fall 2016. Her academic interests include Afro-Latin American and Caribbean literature, the African Diaspora, Afro-Portuguese studies, gender studies, translation and transcription of colonial archives, and Latin America’s historiography.

Co-sponsored by Latin American & Latino Studies and Africana Studies