THE QUEENS COLLEGE WOMEN & GENDER STUDIES PROGRAM

presents

SHAREAH TALEGHANI

CHALLENGING AUTHORITARIANISMS:

Women and Syrian Prison Literature

Wednesday, February 24, 2016 • 12:15–2 pm
Rosenthal Library • Fifth Floor
President’s Conference Room #2
Complimentary lunch

Shareah Taleghani is an assistant professor and director of Middle East Studies at Queens College. She completed her PhD in Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies at New York University with a focus on modern Arabic literary and cultural studies. Her research focuses on the relationship between cultural production, political resistance, and human rights in Syria and the Middle East. Prof. Taleghani also works in the field of Arabic literary translation. She is currently completing a book manuscript entitled Rescripting Human Rights: The Poetics and Politics of Syrian Prison Literature.

QUEENS COLLEGE  The City University of New York