FNES Offices and Programs

The FNES offices in Remsen Hall, Room 306, and Fitzgerald Gymnasium, Room 203, are currently closed. However, all faculty and staff are working from remote locations to ensure that we can maintain our programs through this unprecedented situation. The best way to contact us is through email and we will respond as soon as possible.

For our Remsen-based programs in Nutrition & Dietetics, Food Management Studies, Human Development & Family Science, and FCS Teacher Education, please email: jennifer.tang@qc.cuny.edu

For our Fitzgerald Gym based programs in Nutrition & Exercise Science and Physical Education, please email: Awilda.Cabrera@qc.cuny.edu

Fall 20: Most Fall 20 FNES courses will use the distance-learning modality; on CUNYfirst, these courses are listed as Online. For online classes that will meet synchronously, day and time of the class meeting is also listed on CUNYfirst. For asynchronous classes, CUNYfirst does not mention a day and time of the class meeting. Some Food Science laboratories and activity classes are listed as Hybrid on CUNYfirst. These classes will meet in-person for a limited number of sessions. All safety protocols for in-person classes will follow NYS state and City University of New York guidelines; please await further directions from instructors teaching these classes.

We wish everyone a healthy and successful semester.

The FNES Department
Following letter was recently sent by Dr. Hendrey, the QC Provost, to all students:

Dear Students,
As you prepare for the fall semester, with most of your classes online, I know that many of you, particularly those of you new to QC this semester, may have questions about accessing your classes and how they will work. You should be receiving a communication from either the department or your instructor about how to access the class, whether that be through Blackboard, Google Meet or Zoom.

I have also gotten questions about synchronous and asynchronous classes. Synchronous classes appear in your schedule with specific days and times. These classes will have regular meeting times listed, and you are expected to attend class meetings online just as you would for a face to face class. Class participation may be part of the grade and not participating during the live sessions may lower your grade. Asynchronous classes have assignments and lectures that can be viewed and completed at a time of your choosing, as long as you meet the deadlines of the assigned activities. Please note that attendance during the first three weeks of the semester must be reported to the Registrar’s Office and may have financial aid implications. Attendance in asynchronous classes will be noted if you log in to the course within the first three weeks of the class. Never hesitate to reach out to your instructor directly with any questions about class meetings, links, schedule, assignments, and expectations.

If you are registered for a hybrid class, with some limited in-person activities, your instructor will be in touch with the safety protocols you will need to follow in order to access campus/participate in the activity.

You are also encouraged to download QC Navigate, which is an app designed to help you stay on track for graduation. You can use it to schedule online appointments with advisors, or schedule time with peer mentors or tutors, find study buddies for your courses, and connect to other resources to help you succeed at QC. Download the app at navigate.qc.cuny.edu.

If you have any questions now, or throughout the term, please email keeplearning@qc.cuny.edu, and we will direct your inquiry to the appropriate person.
