Exercise and Aging Laboratory

The major goal of the lab is to improve the health and wellness of older adults. Specifically, the lab is focused on improving physical function and body composition in older adults, especially through exercise interventions.