

Jamie Rywalt

Jamie Rywalt has worked in education for 3 years after spending over a decade in the Hospitality industry.

She currently teaches Family and Consumer Sciences at her alma mater, Valley Central High School. She is dedicated to improving quality of life through practical, community-centered solutions. Jamie recently moved into a new home in Walden, NY, with her daughter. Jamie is grateful to model resilience and initiative for her daughter—demonstrating that thoughtful planning and hard work can create both personal and social change.

