Marc A. Dichter '64 Queens College President's Medal

Marc A. Dichter, MD, PhD, is Professor of Neurology and Pharmacology at the University of Pennsylvania. Former director of the David Mahoney Institute of Neurosciences, he served for 20 years as director of the Penn Epilepsy Center. Dr. Dichter grew up in Queens and attended local public grade schools and Forest Hills High School. He entered Queens College in 1960 and met his wife, Carole (Salz), early in their freshman years, while both were chemistry majors running for the Student Senate. (She came in first place and he came in fifth of the eight elected senators, which meant he had to run for re-election in the spring term to “stagger” the terms of the eight student representatives.) After graduation, Dr. Dichter earned his MD and PhD from New York University School of Medicine, then trained in medicine and neurology at the Harvard-Longwood program. He spent two years doing research at the NIH, following which he joined the faculty of Harvard Medical School. After 14 years at Harvard, he joined the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine in 1986.

Active over the years as a clinician, clinical researcher, basic researcher, educator, and academic administrator, Dr. Dichter's research has focused on both basic neuroscience and clinical investigations in multiple areas of neurology and neuroscience, and he has contributed significantly to the understanding of basic mechanisms underlying epilepsy, mechanisms of action of antiepileptic drugs, and the changes in the normal brain after various injuries that lead to the development of epilepsy. Dr. Dichter also has been involved in research on traumatic brain injury, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, Alzheimer's disease, and autoimmune encephalitis, and was one of the developers of the technique for maintaining mammalian brain neurons in long-term cell cultures, a preparation that allowed detailed physiological and pharmacological studies of mammalian neurons.

Dr. Dichter's research also has included translational and clinical studies in new approaches to treating intractable epilepsy, methods for preventing epilepsy, and neuroprotection. He has been involved in the evaluation of many of the new antiepileptic drugs developed in the last three decades, and co-directs a semiannual conference on antiepileptic drug development that has been ongoing for more than 25 years. He most recently conducted a DOD/US Army-sponsored pilot clinical trial designed to prevent epilepsy after traumatic brain injury. He also has been working with the VA system to enhance the treatment of war-injured veterans, especially with regard to the problem of post-traumatic epilepsy. Dr. Dichter serves as the Chair of the National Advisory Committee overseeing the new VA Epilepsy Centers of Excellence.

Dr. Dichter has published more than 117 research papers and 70 chapters and reviews, and has edited four books. He has won several prestigious awards, including the Javits Award from the NINDS, a Fulbright Fellowship, the Solomon Berson Distinguished Alumnus Award from New York University, the Airing Lectureship at the University of Cincinnati, the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics Award for Research in Antiepileptic Drugs, and the William G. Lennox Award from the American Epilepsy Society. He is a past president of the American Epilepsy Society.

Drs. Marc and Carole Dichter (QC '64) will be celebrating their 52nd wedding anniversary in December, along with their two sons, two daughters-in-law, and five grandchildren.
