RECOGNITION OF SCHOLARS

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Harris M. Horowitz '78 (Accounting)

Harris M. Horowitz (now retired and a former certified public accountant) is a proud Queens College summa cum laude graduate. As a native of Queens, he is the product of the New York City school system, attending The Bronx High School of Science. He is father to three children and has three grandsons. Following his retirement, he has both increased his global travel and returned to school, taking courses in history, theatre, literature, and politics.

In his professional life, Horowitz joined BlackRock, Inc., the world’s largest asset manager, in February 2007. At BlackRock, he served as the managing director-global head of tax as well as its tax policy and innovation leader. Horowitz was responsible for creating and growing the company’s global tax function, including oversight of all corporate and product taxation matters. This role included development of several new tax-advantaged financial products such as exchange-traded funds (ETFs) and separately managed accounts. He was also a member of the company’s Finance Leadership team and the firm’s Government Relations Steering, Enterprise Risk Management, and Corporate Capital Committees.

Horowitz was a recognized leader in the development of international and domestic tax policy, serving as the co-chair of the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association’s (SIFMA) Asset Management Tax Committee, a vice chair of the United States Council of International Business Tax Committee (USCIB) and a member of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development’s (OECD) Business and Industry Tax Advisory Committee. He was a frequent speaker at various industry and government forums.

Before joining BlackRock, he was with EY for over 28 years, serving as a financial services tax partner at EY with a focus on asset managers, funds, financial products, and capital markets. Harris also was EY’s National Investment Company Tax Leader.
