QUEENS COLLEGE

A MESSAGE FROM

President Frank H. Wu

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2025!

You did it! You have earned your degree from Queens College! Whether you’re receiving a bachelor’s degree, master’s degree, a specialist diploma, or advanced certificate, we celebrate you today.

Commencement is the culmination of years of hard work and dedication—not just by our graduates but by the family, friends, faculty, and staff who supported them along the way. As you celebrate your accomplishment today, be sure to take a moment to thank those who helped you.

Earning a college degree is filled with challenges that test your resolve—whether it’s late-night study sessions, juggling school and personal responsibilities, or just enduring a difficult commute to campus. Your ability to overcome those obstacles and remain resolute is a testament your character. I’m confident that your experiences at Queens College will prepare you for the obstacles ahead, both in your career and in your personal life.

As you begin the next chapter of your lives, I encourage you to embrace future opportunities and challenges. The world needs your talent, your innovation, and, most importantly, your character. Keep learning, stay curious, and never stop striving for excellence. Remember that success is not just about personal achievements but also about making a difference in the lives of others. Stay true to the motto of Queens College: “Discimus ut Serviamus: We learn so that we may serve.”

Though you may be leaving our campus, you will always be part of the Queens College family. I wish you well in your future endeavors, and I hope to see you back at Queens College soon, whether it’s to continue your studies or at an alumni event or homecoming. Thank you, and congratulations once again to the Class of 2025!

Brent Staples

Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa

WRITER, JOURNALIST, AND PUBLIC INTELLECTUAL, Brent Staples is nationally recognized for his pathbreaking and influential essays and editorials on race, class, culture, and politics.

A seasoned journalist, he has attained the highest levels of his profession. From his early-career position as a science writer at the Chicago Sun-Times, he went on to advance at The New York Times from editor of the New York Times Book Review and assistant editor of the metropolitan news section to his present appointment—held since 1990—as a member of the editorial board.

He has received numerous awards for his lucid and insightful writing. Those include an Anisfield-Wolf Book Award for his 1994 memoir, Parallel Time: Growing Up in Black and White, which honored its contributions to understanding racism and human diversity. In 2019 he received a Pulitzer Prize for his editorial writing, awarded to him “for editorials written with extraordinary moral clarity that charted the racial fault lines in the United States at a polarizing moment in the nation’s history.”

Dr. Staples has shaped public awareness of everyday stigmatizing assumptions about race, notably in “Just Walk on By: Black Men and Public Space,” a compelling and significant exploration of being casually perceived as criminal because of race. The essay first appeared in a 1986 issue of Ms., was expanded in a 1987 Harper’s article, and has since been widely circulated and taught.

In addition, he has been a consistent voice for the transformative value of education, having received mentoring and scholarships that led him away from what might have been a life of hardship in the shipyards and poverty of his native Chester, Pennsylvania. Instead he earned a BA at Widener University and, with fellowships from the Danforth and Ford Foundations, an MA and PhD in psychology at the University of Chicago, followed by honorary doctorates from Mount Saint Mary College and the University of Pennsylvania.

Throughout his career, Dr. Staples has explored how the past and present of racism are tied together, including by honoring and thinking deeply about how his family experience contributed to his life’s work and trajectory—as a descendant of a great-grandfather who narrowly escaped slavery, of a grandfather and father who worked as truck drivers, and of parents who joined the historic Second Great Migration to escape the Jim Crow South and who raised nine children in difficult circumstances.

Dr. Staples remains a contributor to academic life and thought. He taught psychology before becoming a journalist, has more recently served as a visiting fellow at the Hoover Institution, the University of Chicago, and Yale University, and has appeared on CUNY-TV in episodes of “Black America” and “Bob Herbert’s Op-Ed TV.”

Through his writing Dr. Staples has, for more than forty years, contributed to the preservation of a democratic public sphere of critical thought and debate, demonstrating its essential relevance to the voicing of cultural and policy concerns related to achieving human rights and a just society for everyone. In appreciation for the use of his talents to confront racial injustice publicly, and for his exceptional example of the value of higher education used for the common good, we are proud to confer upon him the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Errol Louis

Queens College President’s Medal

A VOICE FOR INQUIRY AND TRUTHTELLING,

Errol Louis has educated generations of Americans on politics and urban life. For years he has been a tireless print and broadcast journalist, anchor, and host, a podcaster, teacher, community organizer, and philanthropist in New York and nationally, whose integrity, clarity, and acute political analysis have earned the respect of citizens, fellow journalists, and civic leaders.

A native New Yorker, Mr. Louis rose from the middle class. He is the son of a police officer and a bookkeeper who, as an adult, pursued a passion for public affairs. He holds a BA in government from Harvard, an MA in political science from Yale, and a JD from Brooklyn Law School.

An accomplished print reporter, he began writing columns as a student at Harvard. He became a columnist for Our Time Press, a weekly published in Bedford-Stuyvesant, then became associate editor of the New York Sun. He joined the New York Daily News in 2004, where he served as a columnist and editorial board member. He is a contributing writer to Vital City, dedicated to informed urban policy, and is a columnist for New York magazine.

A sought-after broadcast journalist, analyst, and news host, Mr. Louis has excelled on radio, on television, and online.

He was formerly host of the Morning Show on radio station WWRL and, since 2008, has been a CNN contributor, providing on-air commentary for breaking news ranging from presidential primaries to election night. Nationally known for his political acumen, he served as moderator in the 2016 Democratic debate between Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders. He is political anchor of Spectrum News NY1, where he hosts “Inside City Hall,” a nightly show featuring interviews with New York’s political and cultural leaders, and “The Big Deal,” a national politics show. Since 2019 he has hosted “You Decide with Errol Louis,” a weekly podcast offering in-depth discussions of politics and culture.

A community leader, Mr. Louis co-founded the Central Brooklyn Federal Credit Union, and, with the endorsement of The New York Times, ran for a seat on the city council on the Green party ticket. Today he is chair of the board of trustees at the Charles H. Revson Foundation, which awards grants in support of education, urban affairs, biomedical research, and Jewish philanthropy.

Recipient of many tributes, Mr. Louis has been honored with numerous journalism awards, including a commentary award from the New York Association of Black Journalists. In 2010 the Village Voice named him the city’s best newspaper columnist and radio show host. New York magazine has featured him as “One of 10 New Yorkers Making a Difference” owing to his “energy, vision and independent thinking.”

A nationally respected professional, Mr. Louis teaches at the CUNY Graduate School of Journalism, and has taught at the Pratt Institute, Hunter College, Long Island University, and New York University. As an advocate for “more trained journalists,” he wrote in his farewell Daily News column that “The main check on bad behavior by the powerful — sometimes, the only check — is an informed citizenry.”

In appreciation for his years of commitment to a robust, informed, multimedia public sphere of excellent reporting, analysis, and debate, and for his many services to achieving a better society, Queens College is proud to present Errol Louis with its highest administrative award, the Queens College President’s Medal.

About Commencement

Today’s ceremonies are rooted in centuries-old traditions. Commencement—from the Old French word commencement, which means “beginning”—was the name of the ceremony at which university graduates (then called “masters”) were initiated into the teaching profession in medieval Europe. A commencement ceremony acknowledges the success of an institution as well as its students.

The first Queens College commencement ceremony—honoring the 198-member graduating class—took place on Monday, June 16, 1941. Students, their families, and friends had decorated the Quadrangle with flowers brought from their homes. The procession of dignitaries, which included President Paul Klapper, Dean of Faculty Margaret Kiely, Judge Charles Colden, and commencement speaker Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, was soaked by a sudden downpour.

This is Queens College’s one hundred and first commencement. When the college first opened, commencement was held twice a year. Now, although degrees are also awarded in September and February, formal graduation exercises are held in late May or early June. Recipients of degrees awarded during the year are invited to participate in the formal commencement ceremonies.

Marshals are members of the faculty and staff who have volunteered to assist at commencement. They wear academic gowns, carry wooden batons, and perform various organizational assignments, such as assembling and leading the candidates in procession.

The academic procession is a tradition stemming from early universities. Centuries ago, such processions were arranged by the clergy and followed the familiar order of religious processions, with the place of honor at the end. In today’s ceremony, the president, chief marshal, and members of the platform party—including provost, department chairs, board of trustee members and representatives from CUNY, the deans who represent the candidates, college officials, the honorary degree recipients, the commencement speaker, student representatives, and various public dignitaries—will march down the middle aisle, followed by the faculty. Also, four columns of graduates will march in simultaneously, with master’s degree candidates at the head of each column. Banners will identify each division. Special guests for today’s ceremony will be members of the 40th anniversary Class of 1985, 50th anniversary Class of 1975, 60th anniversary Class of 1965, and 70th anniversary Class of 1955.

The chief marshal, traditionally a senior faculty member who has provided long and faithful service to the college, leads the platform party and serves as mace bearer. Though now purely ceremonial, the tradition of the mace bearer dates back to medieval England when an official taking office or opening court needed a bodyguard. In those times, the mace was a formidable weapon, held ready to protect the official. The chief marshal carries the Queens College mace, which has historic significance. Made of dark cherry wood, the mace is adorned with red granite and sterling silver and embedded with a bronze medal showing the original college seal; the seal bears the college’s motto, Discimus ut Serviamus, Latin for “We learn so that we may serve.” The medal was originally presented to the first registrar of the college, Howard Knag, who donated it for the mace. The chief marshal wears a chain of office that includes sterling silver links inscribed with the names and years of past chief marshals. The chain and current mace were a gift from Professor Emeritus John B. Haney, himself a former chief marshal. President Frank H. Wu will also wear a chain of office listing past presidents of the college and their tenures. Donated by past chief marshals, it was provided thanks to a collaboration between former chief marshal Jared Rifkin and Joseph Brostek ’55, long-time director of commencement.

The gowns worn by the graduates represent a dignified and truly democratic custom. At the moment when the degrees are conferred, all the gowned graduates are made equal. Until well into the nineteenth century, it was customary for many American students to wear gowns while in daily residence at college or at meals. Now, with the exception of some British and European schools, few colleges request that students wear these gowns except at graduation exercises.

Caps, called mortarboards—with a tassel hanging on the right side—are worn by degree candidates. As the college president confers the degrees, the candidates symbolically move the tassels to the left side of their mortarboard. Graduates may wear different color cords to represent honor societies and special programs.

While academic costumes have been used in this country since colonial times, there was no uniformity until the late 1890s. Today, the gowns of most universities are black. The hoods worn by the faculty indicate their degrees. The silk lining of the hood gives the color or colors of the institution granting the degree. Traditionally, the shortest hood is the bachelor’s, the longest and broadest is the doctor’s, and the master’s and specialist’s are midway between (although Queens College bachelor’s degree candidates do not wear hoods, some may wear red satin stoles). The color of the velvet binding or edging designates academic disciplines. Among the more frequently seen colors are:

A degree is awarded for successful completion of a program of study. The first known academic degree, the doctorate (from the Latin word docere, to teach), was granted by the University of Bologna in the mid-twelfth century.

At today’s ceremonies, those who will be hooded represent all students in their respective degree categories.

School and departmental ceremonies and receptions that are being held today will take place approximately thirty minutes after the college-wide ceremony. For locations, please consult the map on pages 54-55. Programs identifying school and departmental award winners may be distributed at these ceremonies. Please note that some departments have already held their ceremonies and receptions prior to Commencement Day.
