

Queens College Policy for Minors on Campus

It is a priority of Queens College to provide a safe and healthy learning environment and workplace for all students and employees.

In general, minors who are not registered or participating in a College-sponsored program should not be brought to campus.

The College understands that emergencies or unexpected events occur that can cause conflicts between college obligations and family needs. On these rare occasions, if no other options are available, a parent or guardian may bring a minor onto campus for a limited period of time. Regular visits are not allowed.

A parent or guardian must check the minor in and out of campus at the Public Safety main gate. The minor will be considered a "visitor" for the purposes of CUNY policies.

At no time should minors be present in a classroom while a class is in session, or in potentially hazardous sites such as laboratories, workshops, and areas under construction. It is the parent's or guardian's responsibility to keep minors out of and away from all such areas.

Minors visiting campus must be accompanied and supervised at all times by their parent or guardian. Supervision should not be delegated to another individual. If you are accompanying a minor who is causing disruptions, or if that minor is found to be unaccompanied for any period of time, you and the minor may be asked to leave campus.

This policy applies to Queens College faculty, staff, and employees. Students who have long-term childcare concerns should reach out to the Division of Student Affairs and Enrollment Management.
